

'FRISCO FIRE AT LAST EXTINGUISHED AND SUFFERERS WELL CARED FOR

San Francisco Millionaires and Laborers Breakfasted Yesterday in the Open Streets--Scarcity of Bedding in the Hospitals--Relief Funds Being Raised Everywhere

SUFFERERS BEING CARED FOR
San Francisco, Apr. 22.—The committee having in charge the relief of the hungry, reports that every homeless person is being cared for and that there is no scarcity of either food or drink. The emergency hospital's only complaint is lack of bedding. Though the army and navy stores have been called on for blankets the supply furnished is not enough and physicians fear an epidemic if more bedding is not procured. This fear is particularly strong at the presidio and Golden Gate park. Every person lying in San Francisco yesterday breakfasted on the open street, no fire being allowed in the houses. A few stores fed with a few dry sticks beneath was the improvised way which the food of millionaires as well as the humblest workman was prepared and in the finest residence section of Pacific Heights people sat on the sidewalk and took their coffee, dry bread and crackers.

HOTEL ROCKED LIKE A CRADLE
Oakland, Apr. 21.—J. R. Ritter, of Houston, Texas, said, "I was in the Golden West when the first shock came. When I awoke the hotel was rocking like a cradle. While I was dressing the rear wall of the house fell into the dining room. I got dressed by the time the second shock came and was going to rush out of the building but the appeal of women on the same floor stopped me. With other men guests on the fourth floor, we got the women out. Most of the women were hysterical. Many people ran or half dressed were on the streets running about crying, wild with fear, while buildings toppled over and choked up the streets."

GOVERNOR ACKNOWLEDGES RELIEF

Washington, April 22.—President Roosevelt has received this telegram Governor Pardee of California, "Thanks for the supplies. Conditions are much better and the fire is out. The weather is cool and the people cheerful and being quite well taken care of. There is no epidemic and the whole country is extending its help and sympathy."

APRECIATES SYMPATHY
Ottawa, April 22.—The Governor-General has received the following reply from President Roosevelt to his telegram of condolence:—"I thank you for the message of sympathy, which assures you I deeply appreciate."

RELIEF MEASURES.
Winnipeg, April 22.—The following is a summary of some of the latest reported important donations to the relief of the San Francisco sufferers:
London, April 21.—The first installment of the American relief fund in London of $21,000, has been cabled.
Washington, April 21.—The U. S. Government has donated $2,000,000, the New York Chamber of Commerce $300,000 and Russell Sage $50,000.
The sub-treasury reports additional sums aggregating $1,200,000.
A Sunday meeting in Boston offers to raise $2,000,000 and also donate 3000 tents and five hundred blankets.
The Winnipeg city council has voted $10,000 to relieve sufferers from the San Francisco earthquake. Of the $10,000 contributed $5,000 was immediately wired to Vancouver to purchase supplies, which they had offered to forward to San Francisco. The remaining $5,000 will be held until a later date, when it will be sent to the general relief fund.

EDMONTON MAN RECEIVES ASSURANCE

Mr. Jackson Hanby yesterday received the following delayed wire from a brother in 'Frisco, assuring him of his safety:—"Oakland, Cal., April 19.—Never touched me. Took all except what's on my back."

CARPENTERS WILL HELP

The secretary of the Carpenters Union informs the Bulletin that he has had a wire from their member in the executive board saying the organization was making an appropriation of ten thousand dollars to the San Francisco sufferers.

RELIEF TRAINS EN ROUTE

Chicago, April 22.—A train load of 30,000 blankets is being rushed through today with 1,000 quilts and 5 cars of food to Frisco.

Montreal, April 22.—The C.P.R. contributes 10,000 and the free use of a steamer for food transportation from Vancouver to Frisco.

Brandon gives $250, Regina a carload of flour and Moosejaw $500.

Frisco reports acknowledgment $1,154,000 subscribed to date but this does not include thousands upon thousands of dollars being subscribed all over the world every hour. Immense trains are rushing across the continent as special conveying clothing, medical supplies and full staff. One train of medical supplies costing $25,000 left Tacoma yesterday ordered by the mayor of Philadelphia.

CITY COUNCIL WILL CONTRIBUTE

The city council met this morning and decided to contribute $1,000 to the relief of the San Francisco sufferers. A public meeting will be held in Robertson's hall at 4 p.m. today to rally the appropriation and discuss how Edmonton's share in the relief work should be given.

Mayor Mayor is in receipt of the following wire from Vancouver: Mayor, Edmonton, Vancouver, sending goods supply to San Francisco. If you are contributing, Vancouver relief committee will if desired, purchase and transport promptly on your account. Alexander Bethune, Acting Mayor; R. P. McLennan, President Board of Trade.

The following message was sent in reply:

Alex. Bethune, Actg. Mayor, Vancouver.

Yours received, thanks for your courtesy. Edmonton, however, taking independent proceedings. Chas. May, Mayor.

FAMILY IS SAFE

J. S. Belknap of the Crystal Palace received a telegram from Frisco yesterday from a brother of A. Cristall, saying that Mr. Cristall's wife and children, and other relatives were all safe. Mr. Cristall, who left Edmonton last week, for San Francisco will arrive there today. No word has yet been received of Ernest Gritson and family who have been staying in California.

The message received by Mr. Belknap was the first to reach Edmonton direct from the devastated city, other messages having been sent from outside points.

THE ENTRIES SHOW DIFFERENCE

More Entries at Edmonton Last Month than in Three Years Under Former Government

Ottawa, April 20.—The evening session of the House was devoted to a discussion of the contract with North Atlantic Trading Co. Mr. Foster moved a want of confidence motion and asked for the immediate cancellation of the contract. Mr. Oliver announced that the police of cancellation was given over a week ago. Mr. Foster made an attack on immigration—stating that the country was sufficient to attract immigrants. Mr. Oliver pointed out that the policy of the opposition was against immigration and the advancement not only of the Northwest but of Canada as this depends upon the filling up of the west. By the Liberal policy two hundred million acres of land fit for settlement in Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan had increased in value from $400,000,000 to $1,200,000,000, making an increase of $800,000,000. This was based on the increase of the price of land at $2 per acre, which was a very moderate estimate. Mr. Oliver then gave figures to show how the west was being filled up as indicated by the increase in homestead entries. There were 10,000 more homestead entries in two and a half years during Liberal administration than there were during eighteen years under the Conservative rule. There were more homestead entries at the Edmonton office in the month of March than for three years of Conservative rule.

ASTONISHING BUILDING RECORDS

The building record for the month of April is going to exceed $200,000, and if several large orders which are expected during the next few days are booked before May 1st, it will reach the quarter of a million mark.

For the week closing Saturday, $38,352, bringing the total for the month up to the 21st to a total of $143,162.

These figures surpass the most sanguine expectations of local realty and building men, and prove beyond doubt that Edmonton is going to be the theatre of one of the most remarkable records of building activity ever known in Western Canada. Local building men all admit that they have been too conservative and prognostications are now being made all the way up to the two million mark for the year's work. Some well-informed builders predict that if the parliament buildings are to be built in Edmonton, and the high level bridge, (which is essentially a construction proposition) is to go ahead that the outlay on construction in this city this year will get somewhere between four and five million.

EIGHT HOUR DAY AFTER MAY FIRST

Carpenters' Union Serve Notice on Master Builders' Association.

With the biggest building season in the history of Edmonton in sight there is trouble threatening in the building trades.

Since early in the year the Carpenters' Union have been negotiating with the Master Builders' Association for an eight hour day, and at first asked for a raise of wages, but this request has later been cut out. Meetings have been held and resolutions passed back and forth for the past three months, but no settlement of the difficulty has yet been reached. On Saturday the following letter was received by the secretary of the Master Builders' Association:

Edmonton, April 21, 1906.

Mr. John R. P., Secretary Builders' Association.
Dear Sir,—At a meeting of Local 1325 Carpenters and Joiners, held last evening, your communication of the same date was taken up and a committee of the above local was instructed to inform your Association that on and after the first of May, 1906, the eight hour day would go into effect with a minimum wage of three ($3) dollars, providing no agreement was arrived at before that date between your Association and our Local.

Signed,
A. E. KNAPP,
P. P. DOOLEY,
J. A. KINNEY,

For Local No. 1325.
The letter is a demand for an eight-hour day at the present prevailing rate, which the Master Builders say they cannot very well pay. One prominent building man stated to-day that the builders of the Exchange were forced into a peculiar position by the demand, and one which they could not well get out of without a fight. There are many builders in the city who are not members of the Exchange, and there are also many carpenters who are not members of the Union. If the builders of the Exchange grant the demands of the carpenters of the Union they claim the builders who are not of the Exchange, will employ carpenters who are not of the Union and thereby beat them out in the large contracts which are to be let this summer. The Exchange builders claim that even at the present time they are at a disadvantage, as there are non-board builders who are working a 10-hour day.

Another builder stated that while $3 a day is the minimum wage in the city, it is by no means the standard. There are many carpenters in the city he claims, who are far from being competent mechanics, and who are dear at the $3 rate, but that there are also many competent mechanics who are getting better than $3 a day, quite a number getting $3.50 and some $4. A general meeting of the Master Builders' Exchange has been called to take place at the office of the Association in the Halmick block at 4.30 on Tuesday afternoon, at the conclusion of which it will probably be known whether or not Edmonton is to be tied up by a building strike this summer.

NEW MEMBER INTRODUCED

Mr. W. C. Simmons, the newly elected member for Lethbridge, was introduced to the House Friday by Premier Rutherford and J. Wolf, M.P. of Cardston. Mr. Simmons first speech in the House demonstrated that he was a man of wide knowledge and other members who are quite capable of expressing himself. Mr. Simmons has the priceless gift of a good voice, he has a stage ease and a wide vocabulary and he expresses himself in a style which, while not too assertive, should carry conviction. His first speech on the university bill was a creditable effort.

HAMILTON WON'T ENTERTAIN THE PRINCE

Hamilton, April 21.—Even the efforts of Zimmerman, M.P., to have the city do honors for Prince Arthur Monday have failed to change Mayor Biggar's determination to let the royal visit pass. This was announced officially to-night.

G.T.P. CONSTRUCTION BEGINS AT ONCE ON SASKATOON-BATTLE RIVER SECTION

Construction is to be commenced immediately on the Grand Trunk Pacific from Saskatoon to the Battle River with 5000 men, and railroaders will be working out of Edmonton not later than the first of August.

Twenty-nine cars of grading outfit are already on the way, of which the first consignment of two cars, was received this morning at the C. N. R., and the balance will probably be along today or tomorrow.

The steel will follow the graders as fast as they can get the road bed into shape and the whole construction of the great transcontinental will be rushed as fast as men, teams and money can do the work.

This is the statement of Harvey Pelter, superintendent of construction for Foley Bros. & Larson, who arrived in the city yesterday, and is spending the day consulting with the G. T. P. engineers at their head offices here.

Mr. Pelter will leave on this evening's C. N. R. train for Battleford Junction, where he will establish headquarters for construction for the Saskatoon, Battle River division. He will be accompanied by A. M. Gibson, district engineer for the G. T. P., who will oversee construction on that piece of road.

Mr. Pelter stated this morning that they would have 1000 teams working within a week and inside of three weeks hoped to have 3000 teams and 5000 men making the dirt fly. Construction camps will be established all along the line, but the largest outfit at the present time will be working out of Saskatoon west and from a point south of Battleford Junction, both east and west. The intention is to close up the gap between these two outfits as early as possible, and then turn all attention to the western end. All engineering will then be turned to the Battle River-Battleford section, and the crossing of the Battle River. When this section is well in hand construction will be commenced on the Battle River-Battleford section, and the grading, provided that a fair season is met with will be right into the city of Edmonton before the snow flies.

On the section from Saskatoon, the Canadian-White Co. have a 115-mile contract, and the McMillan-McDermid

Representatives of Foley Bros. & Larson in the City Making Arrangements to Rush Grade Work Across the Prairies--Expects to have 5000 Men at Work in a Few Weeks

Co. have the section from that point to the Portage. Both companies are putting on enormous forces to keep ahead of the track-layers. It is expected that these sections will be ironed this summer, and as the steel gangs will be crowding the graders all across the plains, the track-head, if it does not reach Edmonton this fall will not be far from it. Judging by the number of men to be put to work at once on the Foley-Larsen contract, and the enormous forces being employed for the westerly sections, there is going to be one of the most spectacular pieces of construction this summer ever seen in the history of the North American rail-roading.

The outfit being put to work on the Foley-Larsen contract are, for the most part, from the Langdon ditch, where the company has been working on an enormous irrigation contract for the C. P. R. but some are also being brought from the Lacombe and Westlaw branches of the C. P., where they were working last fall. Men are being employed in Winnipeg and will be brought out over the C. N. R. to Battleford Junction. All the men who can be had in Edmonton and along the line will be employed, up to the limit of the force which the company intends to work. At the present time, notwithstanding the enormous immigration into this country, labor is scarce and one of the difficulties which the construction companies will meet will be to find men enough to carry out the work. Mr. Pelter would not state what wages would be paid on the grade any more than to say that his company would be paying the highest going wages.

The piece of road which is now in hand, from Saskatoon to Battle River, is 200 miles long, and comprises some of the heaviest grading on the prairie section of the G. T. P. The heaviest work in the Saskatoon-Battle River sub-section is to be found in what is known as the Eagle Hills country, almost due south of Battleford. After passing the Battle River the grading is much lighter all the way to Edmonton, and faster time will be made on this end of the contract than on the other. The plans call for a large steel bridge across the South Saskatchewan at Saskatoon and another smaller wooden bridge across the Battle River. From that point there is very little bridging, and it will be straight-away work right through.

ELEVATOR WRECKED AT ST ALBERT

The brick foundation below the big elevator at St. Albert gave way yesterday afternoon at four o'clock and the elevator, with 15,000 bushels of grain in it toppled over against the mill, seriously injuring the mill and completely ruining the elevator.

The St. Albert elevator was built only last fall and was considered one of the best constructed in the country. The mill and elevator were built by the municipality and leased to a local company who were operating them up until Saturday afternoon and doing a good business. The mill is shut down today pending repairs.

NEWSY ITEMS FROM STRATHCONA

The Bulletin's Daily Budget From the Sister Town

Strathcona, April 22.—Mr. Mook, late from California, has left town for Red Deer, near which place he has secured some farm land where he expects to make his home.

Mr. Osborne leaves town this evening via the C. N. R. for his home on the south side of the Battle River. Mr. Osborne came up last year from Seattle, U. S., and secured a very desirable location and is now on his way to commence farming there.

Mr. Atkinson, late of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., came into town a few days ago looking for work in the stone-cutting trade. He has good prospects for work at the capital when the season really opens. He reports all industries brisk in the Canadian Soo. He has already secured a home, and purposes bringing his wife and family up to reside in Alberta.

Mr. Tinsy who came up some months ago from Eastern Ontario, has bought several lots and is now raising poultry and building a house in the south western part of our town. Mr. Tinsy's brother has also come from the east and purposes residing in Northern Alberta.

The town council held a special meeting on Thursday evening, April 19 in the secretary-treasurer's office. Present: Aldermen Clowies Douglas, Elloch, Mackenzie, and Richards. In the absence of Mayor Sheppard, Alderman Richards was elected chairman. The new license by-law was read a third time and passed. The petition lately circulated among the citizens, asking the council to guarantee 15 per cent of the proposed traffic and vehicular addition to the high level bridge causeway for discussion and a committee was appointed to put this matter in practical shape and co-operate with the Edmonton council in presenting it before the Government and different railway companies.

A special train of 24 cars with two engines passed through our town today. The whole consignment was for Revillon Bros., Edmonton. This is a good evidence of the growing west and the business enterprise of the Revillon Bros.

FIFTY SEMI-READY STORES.

Extending From Coast to Coast in the Dominion of Canada

In the cities of Canada where really good things are quickly accepted and appreciated, the "Semi-ready" stores have been established to the number of fifty.

So popular have they become with the best-dressed men that it is the intention of the Semi-ready Company to open more than one store in the larger cities. This has been thought necessary in view of imitators who coin names with which they hope to make capital out of the Semi-ready reputation. Kelly & Moore are the agents for Semi-ready in Edmonton.

ALBERTA UNIVERSITY BILLPASSES SECOND READING

Measure Providing for Establishment of Provincial University Discussed in the House Friday Evening

The University Bill came before the legislature Friday evening and attracted a large audience of ladies and gentlemen interested in the university question. The bill was introduced by the Premier as Minister of Education, and it brought out what were easily the best speeches of the session.

The Premier, in presenting the bill gave a very comprehensive resume of the schools affairs in the province, and Mr. Robertson, leader of the Opposition, who followed him, complimented the government very warmly on the bill, and congratulated the province on the fact that provision was being made at this early date for a provincial university. John T. Moore made a magnificent address on the subject of higher education, and the member for Glenora, himself a university man, made a finished and intensely practical speech on the subject of university training. John R. Boyle spoke briefly on the matter of applied sciences in the universities, recommending that the study of scientific agriculture should be one of the principal subjects in the curriculum, and Mr. Simmons, the new member for Lethbridge, made his maiden speech on the subject of universities.

The Premier, in introducing the bill said that the greatest glory of any nation was its education; that we should leave no stone unturned, should leave nothing undone to bring within the reach of every boy and girl the fullest and most complete education which carried with it the greatest of all gifts, namely, virtue, knowledge and judgment. Our first duty, he said, is to our common schools. We should, no matter what we do for the university, not neglect our common schools. Only a small percentage of the pupils ever get past the common schools, and to this great majority we should pay particular attention.

We have, the Premier said, now in this province, 613 organized school districts, all but seven of which are public schools.

During 1905 there were in attendance in the schools of our province 22,595 pupils.

He found on taking office that the Galician residents of the province were much neglected in the matter of schools. He took up the work of organizing schools in the Galician districts and was happy to say that since Alberta came into confederation he had succeeded in organizing fifteen school districts in the Galician settlements. In the establishment of these fifteen districts only five ratepayers were found who opposed the schools. These schools are now being built and there will soon be school accommodation for all Galician children.

The Premier spoke a few words on the salary question, saying that it was essential for the success of the educational system that good salaries be paid. The financial condition of the province and the large reserve fund vested in the school lands, enabled the Government to maintain a very effective school system, and good salaries could be paid.

To encourage scholars in Alberta to enter the Normal School and become teachers it was necessary that the government should offer some substantial inducement.

Since the 1st of November last the government had authorized the issuance of $193,300 worth of debentures.

"While the public schools must be paid careful attention to, the high schools should not be neglected, as it is from these that the teachers must come."

"I think that a more practical curriculum should be adopted in our high schools in order that the children who are growing into men and women should be better fitted to enter into the practical affairs of life."

"The crowning feature of any school system is the university, and it is to provide an endowment for a University of Alberta that this bill is being submitted to the House."

The Premier explained the principal features of the bill, which provides for control by the board, for co-education and for a strictly non-sectarian university. These principal features are contained in the following potent clauses clipped from the bill:

2 A university consisting of a chancellor, vice-chancellor, senate and convocation is hereby established in the Province as a body politic and corporate by such name as may hereafter be determined by the Legislative Assembly.

3 The said corporation may acquire by purchase or in any other manner and hold for the purposes of the said university and all real property and personal of every nature and kind whatsoever and subject to the terms of any gift, devise or bequest of any property to the university, shall have power to mortgage, sell, transfer or otherwise dispose of all its property real or personal.

4 The chancellor of the said university shall be elected by the members of convocation in the manner hereinafter mentioned and shall hold office for three years, and until his successor is elected.

5 The vice chancellor of the university shall be elected by the members of the senate from among themselves and shall hold office for three years and until his successor is appointed.

7 The senate of the university shall be composed as follows:

(1) The Minister of Education, the chancellor.
(2) Five members to be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council;
(3) Ten members to be elected by convocation from its members.
20 Any member of convocation may be elected chancellor or member of the senate.

21 The elected and appointed members of the senate shall hold office for three years and shall be eligible for re-election or reappointment provided that the first elected or appointed members of the senate shall hold office until two years from the first Wednesday of October next following their election or appointment.

31 The senate may from time to time affiliate any incorporated college or colleges with the university on being satisfied that such college is in operation and possessed of the requisite buildings and a sufficient staff of professors and other teaching officers to affiliate.

42 Any person or corporation may with the approval of the senate, found one or more professorships, lecture-ships, fellowships, scholarships, exhibitions, prizes or other rewards in the university by providing a sufficient endowment in land or other property, and conveying the same to the corporation of the university for the purpose of the work done by them. In Alberta we could hardly hope, and I do not know the work done by them. That demonstration that it would be desirable that denominational universities should be established.

In conclusion the premier said, "I think there is an excellent opportunity for the establishment of a non-sectarian, undenominational university in this province. In other provinces universities were established by denominational institutions. I do not depreciate the work done by them. In Alberta we could hardly hope, and I do not know the work done by them. That demonstration that it would be desirable that denominational universities should be established."

"It may be pertinent to ask when a university should be established as soon as the requirements of the province demand it."

J. R. Boyle said that while he had not had the benefits of a university education, he thought that higher education was necessary. The bill he believed was very complete except in one particular. It was a good deal like a new motor car without any gasoline. However, as the leader of the Government had explained where the motive power was to come from he believed that when the time arrived for the establishment of the university, that one of the branches that should be paid special attention to was scientific agriculture.

Clause 1, regarding the first convocation which, provided that any graduate of any university in the British Empire, he thought might be better be amended to allow of graduates of universities of United States.

Mr. Robertson leader of the Opposition arose to state that the bill was a commendable one having taken action to go on record as leader of the Opposition, although not in opposition. He thought that the Government was to be commended for having taken action to go on record as leader of the Opposition, although not in opposition. He thought that the Government was to be commended for having taken action to go on record as leader of the Opposition, although not in opposition.

He was glad that the university was to be non-sectarian. This was a principle he had always stood for. It was alright for the denominations to have their universities to train their ministers in, as long as they were maintained by the denominations. He also complimented the Government on the provision providing for the education of the women. "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world." It was well that the hand should be as highly trained as possible.

John T. Moore made a fifteen minute oration which in its way was a classic and which met with round after round of applause from the visitors who had gathered to see the university of Alberta launched. The member for Red Deer spoke in a laudatory way of the action of the Government in providing for the establishment of a university and dwell on the possibilities that were thereby presented to the young men and women of this country. He highly commended to non-sectarian feature, and the co-education plan. "Sweet girl graduates," he said in his oration, "May there be many of them. The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world, and I hope that the hand will not rock the cradle any the less dutifully on account of having received a university training."

Mr. Stuart said, in part: It is a great privilege to stand here and endorse the bill that is now before the House. It was not because I was a graduate of a university, nor yet because I belong to one of what are generally called the learned professions that I take such deep pleasure in endorsing this bill. There is a stronger and greater reason than that. It is because I believe in popular government. Follow me. I am a firm believer in democracy, but I admit that democracy has its dangers. Its dangers are from within, of itself, of the people. Yet the Dominion and this province are irreparably committed to democratic government. But if the Government is to be left in hands of the common people, the people must be as highly trained as it is possible, in order that we may have a safe democracy.

The university is the most democratic institution in the world. Democracy began in Europe with the university.

The university bill was read a second time and referred to the committee of the whole.

THE PROPOSED "EXCLUSION" AMENDMENT

The Legislature should drop overboard with all expedition the proposed amendment to the city charter empowering the city council to hold secret sessions.

The amendment has not been asked for, sanctioned, nor would it be endorsed, by the ratepayers of the city; it has not been asked for, considered nor sanctioned even by the city council; it seeks to negative both the spirit and the letter of the city charter, and is strongly opposed by the only member of the Legislature who has a personal acquaintance with the operation of that charter; it seeks to make the city council the final and only judge of what and how much the public shall know regarding the discharge of public business; to make possible as a custom a practice which is only justified and only permissible in the presence of an emergency; to establish as a "right" what may on rare occasions be considered as a privilege; to interpolate a rule by a provision for the exception, and leaves the decision as to what constitutes an exception to the body whom the rule is made to govern; to create a situation which was not intended by the city charter and which is not created by the charters of other Canadian cities; to secure by law the establishment of a condition which is neither permitted by law nor tolerated in practice in any other system of responsible government; and asks that the Legislature delegate to a subordinate body a power which the Legislature itself does not and dare not presume to exercise in regard to its own functions.

And whence came the proposed amendment? Who fathered the thought which it embodies? Did the amendment originate in the city council? According to the city solicitor and to the minutes of that body it has not yet been ratified by the city council. Did it originate in the amendment committee? If so why was it not printed among the other amendments? Did it originate with any individual Alderman? Then why was it not brought before the council, ratified by that body and included among the regular amendments? The city solicitor claims the promise of individual Aldermen to ratify the amendment. By what authority or at whose instigation did the city solicitor secure such promises from the Aldermen? These are questions to which the public is entitled to have answers and the Legislature might well request such answers from the city solicitor before spending more time on an amendment of unknown origin and bad character.

Incidentally the introduction of the amendment is unexpected but none the less convincing endorsement of the Bulletin's claim that the city council has no legal right under the city charter to hold sessions behind closed doors.
This question has been a frequent bone of contention during the past year and a half. The Bulletin has held that the spirit and letter of the city charter entitled the public to know how the public business is transacted. To our recollection this has never been directly denied by the city solicitor. But officials less qualified have been also less modest in their views, and in the face of continued protest have persisted in asserting and exercising the contrary maxim. The request for the amendment constitutes at once a justification of the Bulletin's stand and a rebuke to those who have sought to withhold from the public the information to which the public is entitled. If the council already has the right why ask the Legislature to confer it?

THE HERALD TALKS OF PATRIOTISM

The Calgary Herald is sorely displeased because the member for Edmonton accepted the portfolio of the Interior because Messrs. Douglas, Davis and Talbot have been appointed to the Senate and because Hon. Walter Scott saw fit to accept the Premiership of Saskatchewan. According to the Herald the acceptance of these positions involves a violation of pledges and indicated a lack of patriotism. A reply in kind would be to inquire where and when under pressure of pledges, patriotism or ought else a member of the party which the Herald supports ever declined an office of the far reaching prestige and alluring emol-ments of the janitorship of a poorhouse.

But the Liberals have not accepted and do not accept the traditional office-hunger of their opponents as any justification for the development of a similar appetite and that the Liberal gentlemen cited have not followed the precedents of their enemies in this regard cannot be better shown than by the recital of the misadventures by which the Herald seeks to prove the contrary.

For instance we are told that "a short time since the organs of the party in power heralded to slogan that "To the victors belong the spoils"; the falsity of which is admitted by the Herald's omission to furnish a solitary example of an alleged instance of such "heraldry."

Again we are informed that "from 1898 to 1904 the people of the then North West Territories steadily and consistently asked for provincial autonomy", to which the common knowledge of well informed readers will reply that the people of the West did no thing of the kind.

"The old North West Assembly under the leadership of Mr. Haultain submitted to Ottawa a draft bill embodying these rights", which draft bill was railroad-ed through the Assembly only on the express assurance of Mr. Haultain that it would not be construed as embodying the opinions of the members as to the nature and scope of said rights.

"The general elections for the Dominion were held in November 1904 and one great battle cry in the Territories was 'full provincial rights'; which "great battle cry" was, according to the post-election protestations of the Conservative press, drowned in the jubilant acclamations of the Grand Trunk Pacific project and became the disastrous dirge of the defeated party."

We are assured that the three Conservatives elected, Messrs. Lake, Herson and McCarthy are at their posts in Ottawa; and for remaining plain members of Parliament we apparently are supposed to credit the gentlemen with a superior type of patriotism. We are prepared to admit that the failure of these gentlemen to rise to broader spheres of activity may be for the general benefit of Canada, but until it is shown that this modesty was the result of choice and not circumstances we are disposed to give the credit for the patriotism to the electorate which determined the circumstances rather than the gentlemen whose careers were curtailed thereby.

An interesting sidelight is thrown on the dearth of Conservative argument by the fact that while a fortnight since the Conservative press in the Strathcona constituency was assailing Senator Talbot for mingling with the multitude in an effort to influence public opinion in favor of the Liberal candidate, the Herald now represents him as fearing to face the electorate and as politically fleeing from the wrath to come. That the Senator should be accused of doing for a friend what he feared to do for himself is a compliment unwarranted by the circumstances, but a compliment none the less.

The conclusion of the Herald's line of reasoning, if such may be supposed to exist, is that the portfolio of the Interior and the Senatorial vacancies should have been filled otherwise. Such conclusions can certainly not be construed as the opinion of the people of Alberta or of the west. The resources, the progress and the prospects of Alberta entitle this province to representation in the Federal Cabinet and the Herald will probably be unwilling to suggest that in Alberta a more fitting appointment could have been made than the selection of the senior member from this province. That he happens to be the member for Edmonton instead of Calgary can surely not be the objection of so broadminded a journal. As for the Senatorial appointments, who by experience are better qualified to discharge the duties of such positions than those who have served in the House of Commons or who are more capable of representing there the opinions of the West than those whose public careers and political opinions have been overwhelmingly endorsed by the electorate?

A SUDDEN CONVERSION

Mr. Roche, Conservative member for Marquette, introduced a resolution in the House of Commons a few days since to which reference has already been made in these columns. The resolution was in the form of an amendment proposed to a motion then before the House and stated that:

The public lands of Canada, situated in the provinces and territories west of the Great Lakes should be made available for settlement with the least possible delay;

That to this end all railway companies, corporations, and persons now entitled to select lands earned by way of subsidy, should be obliged to complete their selection of such lands within the earliest possible period, and not later than the first day of November, 1906;

That in arranging for the disposal of the odd numbered sections not so selected and which will thus be released from all such subsidy claims provision should be made to preserve them solely for the bona fide settler and to protect them from the exploitations of the speculator;

That the government should take such administrative measures, and introduce into parliament such legislative enactments as may be necessary to fully carry into effect the terms of this resolution.

In the debate following the Minister of the Interior spoke as follows:

(Hansard, March 30)

Hon. Frank Oliver (Minister of the Interior): I am sure the House and the country, and particularly the western country, is to be congratulated upon the motion which is before the House, considering where it comes from, and upon the addresses that have been made in support of that motion. For many years, ever since, in fact, the responsibility of administering the affairs of the Northwest has been laid upon this parliament, there has been a division of opinion between the two sides of the House, as to what should be the method of administration of the lands of that country. It is certainly a pleasant thing, and I must say particularly pleasant to myself under all the circumstances, that now at last, after some twenty-five years of division of opinion, we are unanimous, and we believe on both sides of the House in the policy of the land for the settler. My hon. friend from Marquette (Mr. Roche) said that this was an important question. It is an important question. It is a question of the very last and highest importance to the Northwest and to all Canada. It must be a matter of the deepest regret to Canada that this agreement was not reached many years ago. The resolution, as it stands, expresses in fairly good terms, the past and present and so far as I know the future policy of the Government in the administration of the western lands. I may be asked, what is the evidence of that outstanding difference of opinion that has always prevailed between the two sides of the House in regard to this matter? I find here, so far back as the year 1880 that on the 5th or 6th of April, the following resolution was moved in parliament by Mr.

Schreiber:

That in the opinion of this House, the proper policy with reference to the disposition of the public lands of Canada should be, so far as practicable, to sell such lands to actual settlers only, on reasonable conditions of settlement, and in lots or quantities limited to the area which can be reasonably occupied by a settler, and that the sale of public lands to speculators, free from conditions of settlement, is impossible and calculated to injuriously affect the settlement of the country by keeping large quantities of land locked up for years, and by obliging the settler thereon, ultimately to pay a price much larger than that which is paid into the public treasury for the same.

That was the expression of the policy and the principle of the Liberal party, twenty-six years ago. Here is the position of their opponents, the gentlemen of whom our friends on the other side are the successors in place and in principle.

It was moved by Mr. Donville, seconded by Mr. Wallace of Norfolk, that this House do now proceed to the consideration of the day.
But it was moved in amendment to the amendment, by Mr. White of Cardwell, afterwards Minister of the Interior, under the party of the opposition, seconded by Mr. Colby, who is not now a member of the House, but who was in recent years, that The policy of the government for the disposal of the public lands in Manitoba and the Northwest is well calculated to promote the rapid settlement of the region and to raise money required for the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway

TRAIN ARRIVE

Revelion's Train Load of Supplies Reached Edmonton on Saturday

Loaded with steamers and hunting and with flags flying, the special train of supplies consigned to Revelion Bros. Edmonton, pulled into the Strathcona depot Friday evening at 5 o'clock and was brought over to the C. N. R. yards here at noon Saturday. On the locomotive's head was a streamer with the inscription, "Revelion Bros., Ltd." Each car bore streamers on both sides advertising the city of Edmonton and the firm of Revelion Bros. The train, which is the first special consignment train that ever pulled into Edmonton, is composed of 24 freight cars loaded with general merchandise for the firm's departmental stores in the city. It was accompanied from Fort William by A. G. McFarlane, special representative of the firm, and by T. S. Atcheson, travelling freight agent of the C. P. R. The unloading of the cars was commenced Saturday afternoon and the handling of the merchandise by the warehouse men will be a large undertaking, and it will take a week or more to complete the unloading.

FOUND BODY NEAR INNISFAIR

Innisfair, April 20.—The body of Graham Briggs was found in a slough, two miles southwest of the town this morning. Briggs went hunting in November last and did not return. An unsuccessful search was made for him, but the mystery remained unsolved until today. The unfortunate man is supposed to have fallen through thin ice when after ducks.

He was a brother of Vincent Briggs of Calgary, and was visiting Canada for the purpose of recruiting his health, having sustained an attack of malarial fever in the West Indies.

Mr. Briggs worked for Robert Archer of Innisfair, for a short time previous to his death.

SEEDING WELL UNDER WAY.

Winnipeg, April 21.—The Canadian Northern has issued a seedling report containing dispatches on weather conditions at points along the line. From several places the weather is reported cold, but in most cases it is reported favorable. In the Vonda district over 50 per cent of the seedling is done, while at Fort Saskatchewan 75 per cent. of the wheat seedling is completed.

without further burdening the people, and that it deserves the support and approval of this House. And that principle of the land for the speculator was carried by a vote of 129 to 40.

Mr. Foster: That was rather the lands for the railways.

Mr. Oliver: The result of that motion, as any man who has lived in the Northwest, as many of us have, during all these years, knows was most disastrous to the welfare of our western country and to the welfare of Canada. Because of the principle there enunciated, and because of that principle being carried into effect under the then administration, that western country, which today is the foundation of the greatness and prosperity of this Dominion stood still for fifteen years and was a drag, or considered to be a drag, upon Canada. It is a happy thing, I say, that after all these years we have come to a unanimous choice in regard to this manner of administration. Might I call the attention of the House and the country to the fact that this decision has been reached on very short notice by our friends on the other side of the House. I fancy it might almost be said to have come on the spur of the moment, because it is only a matter of two or three months since we had an appeal to public opinion, or I might say, more correctly call it an appeal to prejudice in the Northwest in the provincial elections. There were figuring in that election the Liberal party and the Conservative party. It is true that in one of the provinces the Conservative party assumed, very properly, I fancy, a disguise. They were very properly assumed of their name and were recorded. But although the name was changed, the men were the same. The battle cry of the Conservative party, if I may be permitted to use that name in this connection—in these two provinces, only three months ago, was, as it was in the House of Parliament in the year 1896, "The land for the speculator." The leader of what has turned out to be the opposition in Alberta, and the leader of what has also turned out to be the opposition in Saskatchewan was announced from platform after platform that their policy was to sell land in the west to the highest bidder in order to secure money for expenditure in that country.

They spoke of the sale of millions of acres of land, they issued literature in which they declared that the policy of this government in giving the land free to settlers was robbery to these provinces, and they headed their document "Public Lands Robbery."

Mr. Oliver: The conversion of my friends opposite is quite recent. I only hope it is sincere. But I think that a better evidence of sincerity would have been given by them if they had been willing to accept the policy of the government as they knew it to be, rather than to seek by a motion under these circumstances to discredit the government or secure its defeat. Do not think we can accept a vote of want of confidence of our friends opposite as true evidence of their conversion to the principle which they have enunciated in this motion.

Mr. R. L. Borden: Although we are all unanimous.

Mr. Oliver: I only hope that when the time comes these gentlemen opposing before the government the continuation of that policy of the accumulation of settlement, which has been the policy of this government in the past, will be its policy in the future.

Mr. R. L. Borden: May I ask the hon. gentleman whether it is to be introduced this session?

Mr. Oliver: Well, I am not able to give the hon. gentleman an answer on that point.

Mr. R. L. Borden: It seems to be rather sudden.

Mr. Oliver: I can only say that the government rests upon the confidence which it holds from its followers and supporters, and that as long as we retain the confidence of the House we will be able to give the necessary legislation as circumstances demand.

Mr. R. L. Borden: At some future date.

Mr. Oliver: However, as our friends on the other side have seen fit to raise this question, and while endorsing the policy of the government have seen fit to use the occasion to criticize the government—and as I think to unfairly out the advantage which has accrued to this country because of the policy this government has pursued, and to show how diametrically opposite the policy of the former Conservative government was to the policy of the present government.

We find that in regard to the matter of railway land subsidies (this question that is exciting the House opposite so very much) we find that this whole question arises from their policy and practice as expressed in the motion, so far back as 1896 when they were just read. These gentlemen say that, or their predecessors when they were in office saw fit to reserve from settlement in the Northwest Territories and Manitoba for the purpose of housing railways, a total area of practically 50,000,000 acres. They attached to this reservation such conditions that twenty years afterwards the present government notwithstanding its persistent and determined efforts to secure a settlement of these railway subsidies has as yet been unable to absolutely secure their settlement. Would you care for an instance? If so we will take that of the Canadian Pacific Railway and its exemption from taxation for twenty years. Members of the party opposite have spoken of the disadvantage to the country of permitting these railway companies to hold grants without selection and without patenting their lands, in consequence of which they are relieved from taxation. Let me point out that the Canadian Pacific Railway Company was granted some 25,000,000 acres of land with the exemption from taxation to run for 20 years. But there was a condition in this provision the effect of which was that the twenty years exemption on the Canadian Pacific Railway lands did not begin until the land was patented to the company. And because during the 15 years succeeding the granting of the Canadian Pacific charter, while the Conservative Government was in power, they never granted a patent (so I am credibly informed) on one acre of that 25,000,000 acres in the Canadian Pacific Railway, they extended by their deliberate act and contrary to the intention of parliament, that exemption of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company from twenty years to thirty-five years.

Fortunately, after this government attained power, under the administration of the late Minister of the Interior that company was compelled to complete its selection of its land; and I observe that my hon. friend from Marquette complained because they had not been given sufficient time in which to make the selection. But they were compelled to make the selection; and now we know positively that their exemption from taxation will terminate some time; but had our friends opposite remained in power, all the evidence is that instead of the exemption being for twenty years it would have been for ever.

There is a condition connected with these railway land subsidies which I think the House and the country should know in justification of the fact that all the lands are not yet selected. There were in all practically 50,000,000 acres of land reserved for railway use at the time of the grant of that vast amount that has been earned there yet remains to be selected about 1,750,000 acres. And our friends opposite wax eloquent because that quantity remains yet unselected. May I explain to the House just how it happens that this is the case? There is the land grant to the Qu'Appelle, Long Lake and Saskatchewan Railway Company; there is the land grant to the Hudson Bay, now the Canadian Northern Railway Company; and there is the land grant to the Manitoba, Southeastern Railway Company. The conditions attached to the two first mentioned were that the companies were entitled to select two-thirds of their land grant immediately on the completion of their road, but the remaining one-third was held as what is called indemnity lands, as security for the repayment by the company of certain cash advances that were to be made according to contract, to that company. Now, until the twenty years were up, for which this subsidy contract runs, this government cannot compel the railway company to select its indemnity lands, because the railway company need not accept them. This is a condition not created by this government; it is a condition for which our friends on the other side are responsible, and it is certainly unfair that they should to-day put before the House a motion of censure on this government for not doing something which the very conditions they themselves or their friends imposed absolutely prevented from being done. The lands involved in these two partial subsidies, the indemnity lands amount to nearly 1,000,000 acres. There is the Manitoba Southwestern land grant, nearly 600,000 acres. The company is entitled to select that land in a certain part of the grant, but owing to an arrangement, made, I understand, by the late government with the province of Manitoba, there is a dispute between the railway company and the province in regard to those lands; and again, because of action taken by our friends on the other side when they were in power, it has been as yet impossible to compel a selection by that company of those lands, for the simple and evident reason that the lands are not there. One side of these three cases involving something over 1,750,000 acres of land—two instances of indemnity lands and the instance of a grant which, owing to circumstances it has not been possible to select—the vast area of the land grants that have been made and have been earned by the companies, within a small amount, the last acre has been selected and is being patented to the companies as fast as the staff of the Interior Department connected with patents can issue those patents to them. This is a record which I think our hon. friends opposite can hardly justify themselves in asking the House to censure, if they are really in earnest in asking that land grants shall be closed out. There is the further land grant to the Hudson Bay Railway Company. This is a grant made by our friends on the other side. It has only in part been availed of by the company, and the balance of the company stands ready to earn the balance of the grant, and it will be for the government and possibly the House to consider in what way that matters shall be dealt with. So far the company have selected almost all the lands to which they are entitled, except the indemnity lands of which I spoke; and the balance of their grant made years ago not having yet lapsed, this government is not able to deal with that land. That is to say the government, in dealing with any Northwest lands, have to take into consideration the fact that a vast area has been pledged toward the construction of the Hudson Bay Railway. With the record of our friends on the other side, who in the first place made the land grant, and in the second place attached these conditions to them, and retained power for fifteen years without patenting the first acre to the first company, as far as I am aware, we can very well compare our record, in which the last acre has been patented up to the point where it could properly be patented to the companies. The question of dealing with the odd numbered sections throughout the country cannot be dealt with until these questions of land grants to railways are closed out. Once they are closed out there will be no difficulty in dealing with the matter, and I can assure the House on behalf of the government that this government will deal with that question as it has dealt with the land question from the beginning of its taking power, with a view to the settlement of the land and for the benefit of the settler.

I may say in regard to these odd numbered sections that we have to consider not only a matter of some 50,000,000 acres of odd numbered sections that were granted to the railways. The policy of the opposition when in power was that every odd numbered section throughout the Northwest should be locked up for the benefit of the railroad then existing or to be constructed. It was not only a matter of 50,000,000 acres; but every acre that was held under reservation; and because of the conditions attached by that government to the grants then made this government has not yet been free to open up that tremendous reservation of odd numbered sections throughout the whole Northwest. In every particular this government has carried out its principle and policy of the land for the settler, and, as its policy has been in the past, so it will be in the future.

Mr. R. L. Borden: Although we are all unanimous.

Mr. Oliver: I only hope that when the time comes these gentlemen opposing before the government the continuation of that policy of the accumulation of settlement, which has been the policy of this government in the past, will be its policy in the future.

Mr. R. L. Borden: May I ask the hon. gentleman whether it is to be introduced this session?

Mr. Oliver: Well, I am not able to give the hon. gentleman an answer on that point.

Mr. R. L. Borden: It seems to be rather sudden.

Mr. Oliver: I can only say that the government rests upon the confidence which it holds from its followers and supporters, and that as long as we retain the confidence of the House we will be able to give the necessary legislation as circumstances demand.

Mr. R. L. Borden: May I ask the hon. gentleman whether it is to be introduced this session?

Mr. Oliver: Well, I am not able to give the hon. gentleman an answer on that point.

Mr. R. L. Borden: It seems to be rather sudden.

Mr. Oliver: I can only say that the government rests upon the confidence which it holds from its followers and supporters, and that as long as we retain the confidence of the House we will be able to give the necessary legislation as circumstances demand.

Mr. R. L. Borden: At some future date.

Mr. Oliver: However, as our friends on the other side have seen fit to raise this question, and while endorsing the policy of the government have seen fit to use the occasion to criticize the government—and as I think to unfairly out the advantage which has accrued to this country because of the policy this government has pursued, and to show how diametrically opposite the policy of the former Conservative government was to the policy of the present government.

We find that in regard to the matter of railway land subsidies (this question that is exciting the House opposite so very much) we find that this whole question arises from their policy and practice as expressed in the motion, so far back as 1896 when they were just read. These gentlemen say that, or their predecessors when they were in office saw fit to reserve from settlement in the Northwest Territories and Manitoba for the purpose of housing railways, a total area of practically 50,000,000 acres. They attached to this reservation such conditions that twenty years afterwards the present government notwithstanding its persistent and determined efforts to secure a settlement of these railway subsidies has as yet been unable to absolutely secure their settlement. Would you care for an instance? If so we will take that of the Canadian Pacific Railway and its exemption from taxation for twenty years. Members of the party opposite have spoken of the disadvantage to the country of permitting these railway companies to hold grants without selection and without patenting their lands, in consequence of which they are relieved from taxation. Let me point out that the Canadian Pacific Railway Company was granted some 25,000,000 acres of land with the exemption from taxation to run for 20 years. But there was a condition in this provision the effect of which was that the twenty years exemption on the Canadian Pacific Railway lands did not begin until the land was patented to the company. And because during the 15 years succeeding the granting of the Canadian Pacific charter, while the Conservative Government was in power, they never granted a patent (so I am credibly informed) on one acre of that 25,000,000 acres in the Canadian Pacific Railway, they extended by their deliberate act and contrary to the intention of parliament, that exemption of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company from twenty years to thirty-five years.

Fortunately, after this government attained power, under the administration of the late Minister of the Interior that company was compelled to complete its selection of its land; and I observe that my hon. friend from Marquette complained because they had not been given sufficient time in which to make the selection. But they were compelled to make the selection; and now we know positively that their exemption from taxation will terminate some time; but had our friends opposite remained in power, all the evidence is that instead of the exemption being for twenty years it would have been for ever.

There is a condition connected with these railway land subsidies which I think the House and the country should know in justification of the fact that all the lands are not yet selected. There were in all practically 50,000,000 acres of land reserved for railway use at the time of the grant of that vast amount that has been earned there yet remains to be selected about 1,750,000 acres. And our friends opposite wax eloquent because that quantity remains yet unselected. May I explain to the House just how it happens that this is the case? There is the land grant to the Qu'Appelle, Long Lake and Saskatchewan Railway Company; there is the land grant to the Hudson Bay, now the Canadian Northern Railway Company; and there is the land grant to the Manitoba, Southeastern Railway Company. The conditions attached to the two first mentioned were that the companies were entitled to select two-thirds of their land grant immediately on the completion of their road, but the remaining one-third was held as what is called indemnity lands, as security for the repayment by the company of certain cash advances that were to be made according to contract, to that company. Now, until the twenty years were up, for which this subsidy contract runs, this government cannot compel the railway company to select its indemnity lands, because the railway company need not accept them. This is a condition not created by this government; it is a condition for which our friends on the other side are responsible, and it is certainly unfair that they should to-day put before the House a motion of censure on this government for not doing something which the very conditions they themselves or their friends imposed absolutely prevented from being done. The lands involved in these two partial subsidies, the indemnity lands amount to nearly 1,000,000 acres. There is the Manitoba Southwestern land grant, nearly 600,000 acres. The company is entitled to select that land in a certain part of the grant, but owing to an arrangement, made, I understand, by the late government with the province of Manitoba, there is a dispute between the railway company and the province in regard to those lands; and again, because of action taken by our friends on the other side when they were in power, it has been as yet impossible to compel a selection by that company of those lands, for the simple and evident reason that the lands are not there. One side of these three cases involving something over 1,750,000 acres of land—two instances of indemnity lands and the instance of a grant which, owing to circumstances it has not been possible to select—the vast area of the land grants that have been made and have been earned by the companies, within a small amount, the last acre has been selected and is being patented to the companies as fast as the staff of the Interior Department connected with patents can issue those patents to them. This is a record which I think our hon. friends opposite can hardly justify themselves in asking the House to censure, if they are really in earnest in asking that land grants shall be closed out. There is the further land grant to the Hudson Bay Railway Company. This is a grant made by our friends on the other side. It has only in part been availed of by the company, and the balance of the company stands ready to earn the balance of the grant, and it will be for the government and possibly the House to consider in what way that matters shall be dealt with. So far the company have selected almost all the lands to which they are entitled, except the indemnity lands of which I spoke; and the balance of their grant made years ago not having yet lapsed, this government is not able to deal with that land. That is to say the government, in dealing with any Northwest lands, have to take into consideration the fact that a vast area has been pledged toward the construction of the Hudson Bay Railway. With the record of our friends on the other side, who in the first place made the land grant, and in the second place attached these conditions to them, and retained power for fifteen years without patenting the first acre to the first company, as far as I am aware, we can very well compare our record, in which the last acre has been patented up to the point where it could properly be patented to the companies. The question of dealing with the odd numbered sections throughout the country cannot be dealt with until these questions of land grants to railways are closed out. Once they are closed out there will be no difficulty in dealing with the matter, and I can assure the House on behalf of the government that this government will deal with that question as it has dealt with the land question from the beginning of its taking power, with a view to the settlement of the land and for the benefit of the settler.

I may say in regard to these odd numbered sections that we have to consider not only a matter of some 50,000,000 acres of odd numbered sections that were granted to the railways. The policy of the opposition when in power was that every odd numbered section throughout the Northwest should be locked up for the benefit of the railroad then existing or to be constructed. It was not only a matter of 50,000,000 acres; but every acre that was held under reservation; and because of the conditions attached by that government to the grants then made this government has not yet been free to open up that tremendous reservation of odd numbered sections throughout the whole Northwest. In every particular this government has carried out its principle and policy of the land for the settler, and, as its policy has been in the past, so it will be in the future.

Mr. R. L. Borden: Although we are all unanimous.

Mr. Oliver: I only hope that when the time comes these gentlemen opposing before the government the continuation of that policy of the accumulation of settlement, which has been the policy of this government in the past, will be its policy in the future.

Mr. R. L. Borden: May I ask the hon. gentleman whether it is to be introduced this session?

Mr. Oliver: Well, I am not able to give the hon. gentleman an answer on that point.

Mr. R. L. Borden: It seems to be rather sudden.

SPORTS

BASEBALL

The executive committee of the senior baseball team held a well-attended meeting in McDougall & Second's office on Friday evening and attended to several matters in connection with the coming season. As soon as the hall grounds on Second street have been put into shape the team will get down to practice. An eight-foot board fence has been erected, and the grounds will be levelled. A large grand stand will be built in the northeast corner of the ground, and bleachers will also be built. The entrance gate and ticket box will be on the north side of the grounds, one hundred feet from Second street.

The Alberta college team played another match with the Strathcona nine across the river on Saturday afternoon, and were defeated by 14 runs to 8. The Strathconas had a far stronger team in the field than has yet played this season, and they put up some star playing. They will likely play a return match here next Saturday.

A meeting will be held in the music store of Jas. Hanford tomorrow evening to organize a second lacrosse team. All interested are invited.

EVERYBODY'S

Most notable, perhaps, among several notable articles in the May Everybody's Magazine, is Lindsay Denison's "Making Good at Panama." Mr. Denison's is the first authoritative story of the work being done on the canal. He went to Panama armed with a letter from President Roosevelt instructing all Government officers and employees to tell the whole truth "whether it hurts or not."

"The Condemned-Meat Industry," Up-ton Sinclair's trenchant reply to J. Ogden Armour's defence of the Beef Trust, backed up by documentary evidence, will require a deal of answering. Part II. of "The Coal Trust, the Labor Trust, and the People Who Pay," by Hartley Davis, is particularly timely just now.

Thomas W. Lawson recounts a recent experience with Heinze. Vance Thompson draws a delightful word picture of Armand Fallieres in "The New President of France." The fiction in this number of Everybody's is well worthy of the rest of the magazine. Rex E. Beach concludes his great novel of Alaska, "The Spoilers"; James Hopper contributes a short story "The City of Women"; Zona Gale, "Echoes"; Joseph C. Lincoln, "A Tarnished Star," and Anne Story Allen, "The Paper Lady's Lodger."

SOCIAL EVENTS

A very interesting social event took place Saturday when Mrs. de W. Macdonald entertained at luncheon in honor of Miss Mowat, the fair bride elect. The table, at which covers were laid for twelve, was very pretty with silver and cut glass, with four delicate vases filled with carnations surrounding a large glass bowl filled with the same pretty flowers. Mrs. Macdonald looked very smart in a cream serge suit while Miss Kerr wore a white tulle. Miss Mowat was looking very sweet and girlish in an organdie gown. The guests were Mesdames Pardee, Hilslop, Ewing, Nightingale, Coulter, the Misses Mowat, Taylor, Webster, Ferris, Sommerville, McLean, Mabel McCauley, Harvey and Freeman.

Still another function on Saturday was a tea given by Mrs. Wallbridge at which Miss Mowat was also the guest of honor. Tea was served in the dining room. The charmingly arranged table, adorned with green satin centrepieces, on which rested pink canapés, was presided over by Mrs. Ferris, the tea being in charge of Mrs. Pardee. Mrs. Wallbridge wore a dainty gown of hand-embroidered linen. At the conclusion of tea, a Japanese umbrella filled with the daintiest handkerchiefs imaginable was showered on Miss "Peggy" (as she is known to her friends). Needless to say, every one had a very enjoyable afternoon. The guests were very intimate friends of the bride-to-be and were Mesdames Ferris, Pardee, Hilslop, Ewing, Nightingale, Coulter, the Misses Mowat, Taylor, Webster, Ferris, Sommerville, McLean, Mabel McCauley, Harvey and Freeman.

As was surmised at the opening of Government House, there are many brilliant functions happening there from time to time. Friday night proved to be no exception when a reception was held from 9.30 and was greatly enjoyed by all present. The color scheme was red and white. Mrs. Bulyea looked extremely handsome, being attired in an exquisite cream brocade, made in princess, the bodice being draped with green silk lace embroidered in gold. Miss Cushing, who assisted, wore a particularly pretty gown of apricot chiffon crepe with touches of pink and green at the edge of the much belauded skirt. The Empire waist was of darned net applique, the different shades being again noticed in the medallions of hand-made work. The invited guests were: Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Butchart, Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Butchart, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hovey, Mr. O. M. Biggar, Mr. and Mrs. Bowler Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Hobson, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Cushing, Mr. Roy Douglas, Mr. A. C. Fraser, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Ewing, Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Ferris, Dr. and Mrs. Farquharson, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Garapy, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Garlepy, Mrs. Hardisty, Mr. R. E. Hardisty, Mr. W. D. R. Hardisty, Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Harrison, Mr. W. G. Harrison, Mr. H. L. Landry, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mowat, Miss Mowat, Mr. and Mrs. John McPherson, Mr. and Mrs. K. W. MacKenzie, Mr. J. K. Macdonald, Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Nicholls, Mr. and Mrs. John Ross, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Sommerville, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Short, Mr. A. Williamson Taylor, Miss R. H. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Tester, Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Webster, Mr. and Mrs. A. Balmer Watt, Mr. Penryn Worsley, Rev. H. Allen Gray, Mrs. Gray, Mr. Stockie, Capt. Worsley, Miss Worsley, Mr. Cushing, Mr. Cross.

The "At Home" given by Mrs. Bulyea Thursday afternoon was very delightful. Mrs. Bulyea was wearing an eminently lovely gown of mauve chiffon with overdress of white chiffon, trimmed with frills of white silk eyelet embroidery and exquisite hand-made lace, and with her sweet and gracious manner made the afternoon pass very pleasantly for her many guests. Miss Cushing, a guest at Government House, looked quite girlish and lovely in a dainty gown of point d'esprit over cream tulle, the bodice being composed entirely of frills of Valenciennes lace. The floral decorations throughout the pretty rooms were of an exceedingly spring-like nature, being all in green and white, particularly noticeable being the beautiful Easter lilies. In the dining room the tea table with its delicate lace doilies, fair trail flowers and glimmer of glass and silver was quite lovely. Running diagonally across the table were wide ribbon streamers of white satin, caught at the corners in huge bows, the mellow light from the shaded sconces casting a soft gleam over the whole decorations which made the table look most fairy-like. The invited guests were: Mesdames Malcolm McKenzie, J. R. Boyle, H. W. McKenney, P. A. Walker, J. A. Hilslop, Constantine, Riddell, W. S. Robertson, W. A. Griesbach, E. C. Pardee, P. E. Hilslop, D. W. Macdonald, N. D. Beck, Chas. Haustis, A. M. McDonald, D. G. MacQueen, S. B. Woods, Geo. Harcourt, Harris, Delbous, Thibault, D. W. Macdonald, E. A. Braithwaite, D. S. McKenzie, T. W. Lines, T. M. Turnbull, G. R. P. Kirkpatrick, E. W. Burley, A. A. Nicholls, and Misses Currie, Worsley and Kerr.
